Town of Brooks Has Civic Pride

Bulletin. Chama Brooks Holds First Place for Beautiful Town

From Brooks Bulletin—Civic pride—A town is the mirror of its citizenry. So let us be proud of our town and do everything we can to make it clean and beautiful.

Lawns and trees and well kept gardens add immeasurably to a town's appearance. High improvements are infectious. Let's make a start and the rest of the remainder will follow suit. Abraham Lincoln said: "I like to see a man proud of the place wherein he lives, so that the place will be proud of him."

In any event we can all be unanimous on the subject of improving our town's appearance. Brooks is acknowledged to be the prettiest town in southern Alberta. Let us keep it at the head of the procession. Editor's Note—If it is true that a town is the mirror of its citizenry, then we Redcliff people could lay claim to be about the loveliest folk to be found anywhere. It is quite true that there are many well kept private properties here but outside of the new park and the Legion, Bowling Green and, of course, hard surfaced Broadway, the beauties of Redcliff as a town are conspicuous by their absence. How about it folks? Is Brooks going to hold first place indefinitely?

Pte. Clifford Ismond of the Saskatchewan Regiment is spending the week here in Medicine Hat with friends during his six days leave from his training camp at Weyburn, Sask.

Mr. O. Vogstad, Honored by Members of Local Legion

Mr. O. Vogstad was the guest of honor at a farewell gathering of the Local Legion in their Club rooms on Friday.

On the eve of his departure for Vancouver, where he will reside in future, Mr. Vogstad, who is a veteran of the Great War, was presented with fine fountain pen as a memento and as a mark of esteem from his Legion friends to Redcliff.

Mayor Sangster Visits Red Cross, Calgary

One Row of Vegetables From Each Garden in Redcliff

While Mayor Sangster was in Calgary last week he visited the Junior Red Cross Hospital from which Redcliff has derived so much benefit from time to time.

In a conversation with Lieut. Col. Tomlinson, the Colonel expressed his pleasure and satisfaction in regard to the Red Cross work being shipped from Redcliff. He commented upon the excellent quality of the work and the efficient type of packing done. He said Redcliff shipments needed no repacking.

This is very complimentary to the women of Redcliff who are doing the work and to Mrs. Bellhorn who is in charge of the work committee.

Col. Tomlinson wondered if everyone in Redcliff having a garden would devote one row of vegetables to the Junior Red Cross Hospital. Anyone willing to do this should get in touch with the local Red Cross in the Hall when arrangements will be made for the shipment of all vegetables as donated, free of charge to Calgary.

In view of the splendid work being done by the Junior R.C. Club, this looks like a very small request and will, no doubt, be generously responded to as the custom of the people of Redcliff when any good cause needs assistance.

IMPERIAL OIL ANNOUNCES NEW MOTOR OIL

New Refining Methods Give Qualities never before Obtainable

A recent survey shows that the petroleum industry leads in scientific research work and this is one reason why the quality of motor fuels and oils is continuously being improved. A notable improvement in motor oils is announced in this issue of this paper by Imperial Oil Limited, the New Marvelube oil which is now being sold by Imperial Oil agents and dealers in this district is said to last longer, give better protection of engine and more economy of operation because its refining has been carried further by long research work in the company's big research laboratories.

The new oil is said to be the first oil to be made by using the four modern refining processes, by using all four of these processes, instead of a smaller number, Imperial scientists announce they have obtained qualities never before possible in a motor oil.

Each refining process used removes some of the undesirable properties from the crude oil so that the oil finally produced is a pure lubricant, containing nothing but the qualities necessary to provide safe lubrication at all temperatures.

One process separates the gummy black substances from the oil which cause heavy carbon deposits in an engine. Another process removes undesirable compounds which cause oil to break down and form sludge. A third process removes the wax so that the oil flows freely at all temperatures, and the fourth process removes the last traces of impurities and gives the oil its final polish, ensuring the production of an oil of highest quality.

The new oil was developed for use in motors, trucks and tractors and is distributed from coast to coast by Imperial Oil agents and dealers.

Redcliff Soldiers Make Good Showing, Calgary

59 per cent of Local Boys Now Non Commissioned Officers

Out of the 23 boys from town who joined the Calgary Highlanders, there are two who transferred to the Ordinance Corps, and have become Staff Sergeants. Of the rest who are still in the Highlanders, there are 4 sergeants and 2 corporals, which means that 59 of them are already non commissioned officers.

SCANDINAVIANS IN CANADA

The free, democratic peoples of the world, view the ravishing of Denmark and Norway with regret and dismay. This is particularly true of the people of Western Canada for it was from the Scandinavian countries that some of our very best settlers came.

The Scandinavians people who have come to our western land have distinguished themselves by ability to work hard and accommodate themselves to a new environment, a love of freedom and democratic ways, and an eagerness to become Canadians.

The Scandinavians are of the same root stock as the Anglo-Saxons. They thus offer no problem in assimilation. In their home land they enjoyed a degree of culture and standard of living comparable with our other advanced nations.

The Scandinavians have proved to be excellent settlers in the prairie provinces of Canada. The only regret is that more of them had not decided to cast their lot in this great land.

Local L. A. to Legion Make Presentation

Redcliff Soldier Boys Receive Cigarette Cases Tuesday

On Tuesday afternoon, the local branch of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion entertained the Medicine Hat branch of the L.A. at an afternoon of Bingo in Cliff Hall.

At 4 p.m. when refreshments were about to be served, all the boys from Redcliff, who have joined the C.A.S.F., arrived to receive a presentation to be made by the local ladies.

After everyone had satisfied the inner man, Mrs. Jan Kitcher, called upon the President, Mrs. E. Polack Sr., to make the presentation.

While the rest of the boys were admiring the fine pocket cigarette cases filled with cigarettes, which they had just received, Sergeant Ted Lawson, on request of Mrs. J. Kitcher, spoke briefly. Sergeant Lawson told the ladies on behalf of the boys and commented on the splendid way in which the people of Redcliff are helping the war effort.

Honorary mention goes to Mrs. J. Kitcher, who acted as personal escort to the boys as they went forward to receive their gifts.

Special Council Meeting Held Tuesday Night

Mayor Submitted Report Visit to Edmonton and Calgary

A special meeting of Council was held on Tuesday night in the Town Hall to hear the report of Mayor Sangster in regard to his recent visit to Edmonton and Calgary on Town business.

As a result of the Mayor's report, the Council decided to go ahead with the painting of the inside of the water tank. The contract for this work was given to the Dominion Bridge Co. and the men are now at work on the tank.

It was decided to proceed also with the installation of a new pump and engine at the pumping station and to lay 10 inch iron piping from the station to beyond the Gundersen Erick and Coal Co's plant to take the place of the old wooden water mains which have outlived their day of usefulness.

Menzie's of Health Dept. Suggests Chlorinator

Installation of Chlorinator Is Recommended For Redcliff

Mr. Menzie's of the Health Department at Edmonton, was in town this week, discussing with the Council, the water supply of the town with a view to taking every precaution against possible contamination.

Tests of Redcliff water will be made in the government laboratories in Edmonton. The last examination showed a clear bill for Redcliff water.

Mr. Menzie suggested that a chlorinator be installed at the intake to further safeguard the water from contamination caused by the jumping of refuse into the river further up the stream.

Proved His Ability

Young Duckhead Captained Lifesheet For Week After Frigate Boat

Executive ability and a notable feat of seamanship displayed by an 18-year-old deckboy after his ship had been torpedoed and sunk in the Atlantic attracted the attention of the British Admiralty, which has invited him to call for an interview. The boy, named Morrison, member of a family of fishers on the Hebrides Island of Lewis, was in a water-tight lifeboat, with five other survivors of the stricken strapping Arlington Castle. He found that he was the only one among them who knew how to handle a sail, or anything about navigation, so he calmly took charge.

With a small compass he set a course, and for a week never left the tiller except to take a turn at the oars to warm himself, although his hands were badly frostbitten. There were plenty of biscuits, condensed milk and some bully beef in the locker, but very little water, so Morrison rationed this, allowing only one spoonful at a time, except in the case of a 65-year-old man, to whom he gave a drink whenever he needed it.

The boat on the seventh day was sighted by a Norwegian tanker, which took the castaways aboard.

Another Economy Measure

German Housewives Use Shopping Basket To Save Wrapping Paper

German housewives have brought out the old-fashioned shopping baskets to help with the war. An almost forgotten relic in most German households, the shopping basket has now become a treasure to the housewife because grocers and butchers are unable to deliver goods to the homes—more important—because it saves wrapping paper and paper bags.

The basket enjoys the benediction of authorities who publicly have told German women to use it in shopping. It is pointed out that potatoes, for instance, can be dumped right into the basket, as can other vegetables, canned goods, standardized soap and other such commodities. Some stores have taken the hint of the Government and are now displaying signs asking shoppers to bring their old baskets with them.

There is one of many German wartime economy measures. Another is bone-collecting, which has become a high patriotic duty. The official German news agency, DNR, has circulated this admonition: "Housewife, don't burn any bones and don't throw them into the garbage can." Bones should be put aside, even when they have been used for soups, and kept in readiness for school children, the Hitler Youth and other voluntary bone collectors, the authorities say.

Bones thus collected can be put to three uses: For the manufacture of materials for industrial uses and for fertilizers. The fats contained in bones, it is said, is valuable to soap and cosmetics manufacturers besides being usable in other branches of industry. Experts estimate that four-fifths of the bones in Germany go to waste. That condition, it is insisted must cease.

Cheers Were Silenced

When Widow Of Exeter's Commander Met Her Medal From King George

A woman dressed in black thanked the cheering which swept Whitehall recently when the King and his people honored the officers and men of the cruisers Exeter and Ajax for their bravery in the victory of the Graf Spee. It was on the historic Horse Guard's parade ground. The King had just inspected the 760 officers and men of the two cruisers. In one corner, watching the inspection, was a small group of civilians, the next-of-kin of those who had been killed in the battle. Thrown from this group Mrs. Russell, widow of Major W. A. Russell, of H.M. S. Exeter, who died of his wounds in the battle, was conducted to the investiture table to receive the medal for conspicuous gallantry from the King. Mrs. Russell had both arms shattered when the Exeter received a direct hit from the front by a shell which remained on deck to cheer his shipmates throughout the battle. The crowd had been cheering its loudest when this moment. But the pale woman in black seemed to symbolize all the national sentiment of pride in gallantry and sacrifice. She stood not many yards away. The cheers died when there was silence, as another Remembrance Day. The King shook hands with Mrs. Russell. The Queen smiled her sympathy.

Loyalty Of South Africa

Prime Minister Jan Smuts Stands By Ideals Of British Freedom

Prime Minister Jan Smuts said that he advocated South Africa's joining in the Empire's war against Germany because "Great Britain is our greatest friend." Germany would be a dangerous defector. "I am not an Englishman—I have not a drop of English blood in me. I do not for a moment hesitate to choose to stand by old friendships and old ideals of freedom and justice for what we stand. I do believe that Great Britain is our greatest friend and that Germany would be a dangerous defector." "Many people in the Union are constantly recalling the past. I remember that it was Great Britain which made South Africa a free country and which has given liberty and lavishly whatever South Africa has asked for in the way of liberty and status."

"Since Sept. 4 there has been a surge of feeling in favor of South Africa's decision to enter the war. It has been a great consolation for me to find this response from all over the Union. Support for the United party is winning because the party's cause is a winning one."

Canada's Opportunities

Provided the people of this country, and of all sections of it, are ready and willing to pull together with the single objective in view of making the most of the opportunities that are being afforded, Canada's future destiny as one of the most powerful and influential nations of the world appears assured.

That the future holds out glittering prospects of great potentialities for this Dominion there can be no doubt if the foundations which are now being laid are built on the solid rock of true democratic principles and if the people of this young nation build themselves together in unified effort to seize upon the opportunities that lie on the threshold.

The testimony of men of experience, wisdom and vision that Canada is destined for a great role upon the nations is being multiplied daily. This country has all the ingredients of powerful nationhood—an immense area replete with tremendous resources, a comparatively small but virile population, an invigorating and healthful climate, vast spaces capable of enormous development and now, the opportunity for stretching out and developing these great assets. All that is needed is a populace prepared to look ahead and assume the place in the sun that merely awaits the grasping. As the octogenarian Sir Alfred Meakin, former acting prime minister of Newfoundland recently said, urging union of Newfoundland with this country: "Obviously it (Canada) is to be the heart of the British Empire in the not distant future. We have the heart of the country in the world. All that we now want is the greatest people in character and in courage."

A Great Mission

Stating that after the war the world will be initially an Anglo-Saxon dominated world, Frederick T. Churchill, Ottawa correspondent of the New York Times, recently visualized a great role for this country in a world purged of Hitlerism. Declaring that this country has already become the geographical centre of the British Empire, Mr. Churchill saw prospects of Canada becoming the world's air centre through the British Commonwealth Air Training scheme.

"It may be Canada's highest mission," said Mr. Churchill, "to bring us all together—the democracies of the old world and the democracies of the new, to be the keystone of Anglo-Saxonism, holding together a great arch of peace and progress, topped by the ancient columns of democracy. A brilliant vision and by no means an impractical one. Indeed, our feet are already planted on the broad highway to the goal conjured up by the New York newspaperman. It remains for us to see that the road is traversed without deviation until the objective is reached. The importance of heading every enemy to the first task immediately at hand, that of defeating the enemy thoroughly and speedily. The sooner that salutations have been fought, the earlier will Canada, the British Empire and the other democracies be able to get down to an ambitious program of peace, progress and prosperity—security for all."

And what of the war itself? Despite those who were disposed to be impatient and irritable at the lack of any spectacular drive on the part of either of the belligerents, British authorities were well satisfied that progress was made in the first six months of hostilities. As Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer of Great Britain well summarized it: "It has been of great advantage to us to have these six months in which we have been able so vastly to improve our preparation and equipment. What ever Germany may have made of the six months, on balance, it is the Allies who have gained."

Must Humiliate Firm

And as Prime Minister Chamberlain appropriately put it, Hitler has "missed the bus" in not taking the offensive before the Allied armies were able to complete their preparations to meet any big push which the foe might have launched but didn't.

Having "missed the bus," Hitler and his colleagues appear to be living in a fool's paradise, dreaming of the day they may be extricated from their dilemma by a negotiated peace—an eventuality which is beyond all possibility, if the Allied leaders maintain the stand which they have stoutly held since the outbreak of hostilities. There is no reason to believe there will be any weakening of the position that Nazism must be rendered impotent before the Allies will lay down their arms. Indeed, any such relaxation of the Allied position would be an invitation for a repetition elsewhere of the rape of Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Until the routing and uprooting of Nazism has been consummated, therefore, the people of this country must be content to continue their participation in the war with patience, determination and indomitable will and in the meantime, take advantage of opportunities which will arise from time to time to prepare the scaffolding for the magnificent national structure which may and will be erected once peace has been restored.

The Leipzig Fair

Honorable History Has Been Changed To Mystery By Nazis

The Leipzig spring fair, which Dr. Goebbels opened with one of his characteristic speeches, has a long and until recent years an honorable history. Like the Autumn Fair, it goes back perhaps as far as the twelfth century. In olden times the voice of commerce was sometimes stronger than batteries. Safe-conducts were long given to those who came to trade, and emissaries and hunters and the hunted might all finger the same pieces of goods. Here, for the time being, was a commercial capital of a Central Europe—indeed, of an area far wider than Central Europe in the present sense—whose unity was based on trade. For Leipzig lay on the natural routes from the North Sea and the Baltic, from Russia and the Danubian countries.

In pre-war times the modern spring fair attracted as much as 200,000 visitors, including 30,000 buyers from countries outside Germany. Exhibitions from Denmark, Slovakia, Great Britain, France and Poland attracted attention at Leipzig. In the early Nineties, when the two great Leipzig wars had a center of more than national book, of art, of music, of learning.

How much madder since the old hand of Nazism was laid upon the city? A great many commercial exhibits, no doubt—banners, a clock that tugs but does not tick, and fluorescent stockings that gleam in the darkness of a blacked-out night. Foreign countries are represented, with Yugoslavia leading in the number of exhibits, and the latest blarney of the aggressive Nazi state, which has brought not only a military but a political exhibit into Europe, the Leipzig Fair is a hollow mockery. The old free give-and-take of trade casts no more. Commerce is used to promote hateful purposes and its normal profits are shot away in the hideous war of war. The fair is a monument to the moral and economic bankruptcy of Germany, and to the threatened bankruptcy of Western civilization. Goethe once passed that way. He would weep at what the Kaiser Faust has done to the assurance of redemption—the New York Times.

Noway's Resources

They Consider A Rich Potential Prime Of War

Scientist-members of the American Commerce Council described Norway's widespread natural resources as rich potential prime of war.

Southern Norway has manganese, indispensable in making steel. Deposits became very valuable during the first Great War, when Russia can supply Germany with all the manganese needed, the Norwegian sources are very rich. The use of iron in transportation is so great that it makes rayon, a textile that ordinarily uses cotton linters as the starting material.

In the extreme north are large iron deposits. They are not as good as Sweden's iron, because of impurities, but Russia has been interested in them. The largest nickel refinery in Europe is at Chistiansund. It is owned by the Falunberg Mining Company of Canada.

The country has some coal mines. At Styggeberg are coal mines.

A Favorite Trick

Enemy Spies Flee As War Comes Closer, As They Did In Last War

An order issued recently by the Department of National Defense forbids each member of a favored enemy spy ring of the Great War. The order forbids soldiers to insert advertisements or letters in any publication inviting strangers to communicate with them. It forbids them to reply to such advertisements or communications. They must not in any other way communicate with strangers, a censoring military matters.

A popular military strategy is to obtain military information in the employ of enemy spies to pose as "war godmothers." The trick is a simple one and gave military authorities trouble during the last war.

The department does not forbid members of the C.A.S.P. to have "war godmothers." On the contrary the practice is endorsed if done through persons of high standing, by or of his family circle or through a responsible welfare agency.

Democratic Monarchs

Scandinavian Rulers Held Speeches And Devotion Of Their People

Three aged Scandinavian monarchs, who kept their nations neutral during the first Great War, now are face to face with the second, despite constant efforts to avoid being drawn into the war.

King Gustaf V. of Sweden, now nearly 82, has been on the throne nearly 25 years. King Christian X. of Denmark, nearly 70, has ruled for 28 years and King Haakon VII. of Norway, 68, has reigned 24 years.

All have held the respect and devotion of their people and all have been noted for their democratic leanings.

King Gustaf became one of the most democratic monarchs of Europe during and after the last war. He once did a day's work as a stevedore during a strike at Stockholm. During his friendly patronage of the Olympic games he personally bestowed honors on the winning athletes. Even in late years, he is noted as an excellent tennis player.

Gustaf brought Vasa blood back to the throne. It was Gustaf Vasa who led the rebellion against Danish rule and became, in 1523, the first king of independent Sweden. The present king is the 12th in his line, the ruling house of Sweden which was established in 1515.

In 1881 he married Princess Sofia, a cousin of the queen, who died in 1930. The crown prince is Gustaf Adolf, born Nov. 11, 1903.

King Christian of Denmark mixes freely with his subjects, without the airs of an excellent tennis player. His figure, on horseback, is a frequent sight among the crowds.

His family name is Godefridsen. He was born in 1893, under the name of the Danish Christian, the throne, following Danish tradition, he chose the name of Christian, for all Danish kings probably bear the name of Christian and Frederick.

He is admired by his subjects as a soldier. He was educated fully in the country's schools and colleges. In his military career, as an officer he was noted for his ability. He was elected to the Danish national electoral college and became the nation's foremost goodwill envoy.

He was married April 26, 1896, to Princess Alexandra of Mecklenburg. The crown prince is Frederik, born March 11, 1898.

King Haakon is the first independent monarch of Norway in more than 400 years. Before he became king his realm had been ruled by joint kings, with Denmark from 1450 to 1814, and with Sweden from 1814 to 1905.

In taking the name Haakon he revived a name that had been dormant for more than 600 years. He married, July 28, 1894, Princess Maud, third daughter of King Edward VII. of Great Britain. She died Nov. 30, 1938. The crown prince is Olav, born July 1, 1903.

Order Not Required

Zouaves Even When In Service Uniform Carry Their Own Handkerchiefs

Admiral Maurel, writing in the London Daily Mail, of the parade held some time ago when General Canine conferred on General Lord the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, tells of an interesting incident.

The French detachment which did the honors that day was a company of Zouaves, with hand and bag. Service dress had been prescribed—service dress with steel helmets. But that morning one of the High Corps march past, remarked with justice that Zouaves without chachias are no longer Zouaves.

"It's a pity," he said, "that nobody thought of telling them to bring their chachias."

"That," said the detachment commander, "is an order which the Zouaves do not require."

And turning to his men, he said: "Which of you have brought your chachias?"

Two hundred hands were raised and each of them held the red head-dress. And so the Zouaves were able to be Zouaves once again. The English, lovers of tradition, were delighted, and "Pan, Pan, Tarr!" to the strains of the march, the troops marched past, recovered all its brilliance and gaiety.

THE MAGNIFICENT SILVER SARCOPHAGUS OF KING PHOENICUS

A few weeks ago news came from Egypt that scientists had discovered the tomb of King Phoenices, one of the ancient kings of Lower Egypt, and that the burial place was filled with amazing treasures. This is a picture of the silver sarcophagus of King Phoenices, a huge piece, nearly seven feet in length, and beautifully carved and engraved. On the head is the royal insignia of the Kings of Lower Egypt, and in the folded arms are the Sceptre and the Flail.

Penalty Should Be Severe

And Law Against Drunken Drivers Should Be Rigidly Enforced

First, we need to build a public sentiment which condemns drunken driving unequivocally and sternly. We need to recognize the plain fact that a drunken man or woman behind the wheel of a car is as much a menace to public safety as a maniac at large; and we need a public opinion that will tell him or her so without hesitation.

Second, we need more stringent laws to deal with the offense and rigid enforcement of those laws. The penalty for drunken driving should be heavy enough to make even the most careless driver think twice.

And it ought to be applied without fear or favor. Judges, magistrates and juries should be educated to regard danger caused by drunken drivers more from the standpoint of the victim than from the "good fellow" who has "got into trouble" by his own fault. Indeed, "I may be in the same fix sometime," calling for leniency, the attitude should be "I may be the next victim," and call for punishment which will tend to prevent making more victims.

Too much cannot be done to impress on the mind of the driver that the law and alcohol forms too dangerous a mixture.—Owen Sound Sun Times.

Army Military Training

The new Army military training tables bear little resemblance to the old "physical" tables of the Great War. The methods used in Canada are those recently adopted by the Army gymnastic staff in England. The new methods aim at co-ordination of eye, brain and muscle and the development of flexibility, endurance rather than large muscles and strength.

Speedy Mine Sover

Developed By British Experts It Has Proved Most Efficient

Development of a speedy mine-saver by which Allied war vessels can plant a mine every five seconds made possible the laying of the three extensive mine fields off Norway's coast in an hour. Major Neville Hopkins, civil research engineer, said at New York.

Major Hopkins did not disclose how he learned of the new mine-saver, saying only "I have reason to be informed of the British invention."

Said in an interview that British experts have developed a mine-saver, based upon a high-speed conveyor belt adapted to a rolling ship, which enables a single mine-layer to sow 120 mines an hour. He said a series of three mine-layers could in 30 minutes plant a mine field sufficient to bottle up a large harbor.

"As a pressure force on any country, this quick-mining machine will probably prove more effective than anything short of invasion," said the engineer. "Consider the fact that the government of the reflection that in a relatively few minutes all of its harbors can be made unusable."

Control Sales Of Explosives

Measures to control sales and purchases of authorized explosives have been adopted by the Government on the recommendation of the Minister of Mines and Resources. A record of sales by authorized vendors must be kept for submission upon request to an inspector or peace officer. Only one approved statement is required in a calendar year from both side owners or operators of mines or quarries.

Line For The Soil

It Applied Where Not Needed It May Harm Crops

Boils very greatly in their natural supply of lime, says the Advisory Fertilizer Board of Ontario, soils which are strongly acidic are likely to be lacking in time for best growth of certain crops.

On the other hand, a slight degree of acidity is favorable for certain farm and garden crops such as alfalfa, turnips, potatoes, tobacco, beans, onions, sweet corn and strawberries. Other crops such as wheat, barley, tomatoes, soybeans, mangels, and corn, thrive best when the reaction is nearer neutral. Still, other crops prefer slightly alkaline reaction of soil—alfalfa, clovers and asparagus. If the soil is nearly neutral or alkaline, it is likely to have an abundance of lime for most crops.

Soil acidity tends to tie-up available phosphates in forms that are not available to growing crops, hence it is of great importance that soil reaction favorable to the growing crop should be maintained. For fertilizers are to render maximum help. While the presence of sheep manure on the land and repeated tillage is get catches of alfalfa or clovers may be taken as evidence of lime-deficiency, the safest procedure to determine whether or not land requires lime is to have the soil tested.

It is a waste of time when it is not needed and it is a waste of practice and may actually harm the soil and crops.

Decorations Are Different

Queen Elizabeth Has Made Many Changes At Buckingham Palace

It is over three years now since the King and Queen arrived at Buckingham Palace to take up their residence. During that time, the expert hand of the Queen has made many changes in the interior decorations—especially in her own apartment, reports the London Daily Sketch. Queen Mary's favorite color was a pale blue. While Queen Elizabeth has a liking for this tint, she is equally fond of a very pale pink. That color is seen in the choice of the color of her dresses and the frocks of the Princesses. Furnishings in the Royal apartments show the same faint tint. In the State apartments, which are the concern of the Office of Works, alterations have also been made at the Queen's suggestion. She is not so keen on mass formation of color, and prefers lighter schemes emphasizing the artistry of foliage.

Just Matter Of Taste

Story About Women Who Altered Hair Views Many

The Toronto Telegram tells this one: During showing of the March 1939 film at the Imperial we discovered the woman sitting next to us had been to Vitebsk City, the subject of the news story. She kept telling her friend about it as the film unfolded and people round about began turning their heads irritably. When the scene showed the Vitebsk Chapel with tourists lying on the floor the better to see the magnificent paintings on the ceiling, the commentator's voice took on a reverent tone. But the woman next to us had better things to see. Another scene showed the Vitebsk Chapel. She rather pouted the whole thing and told her friend decisively: "You know, I think the ceiling of the Grand Central Station in New York is far better than this."

World Air Routes

Britain Preparing To Obtain Equal-ity With Other Powers

Great Britain is preparing for a renewed drive to obtain equality with other powers on world air routes in spite of the demands which war has imposed on her aircraft industry.

The disclosure that British commercial interests had purchased approximately 100 powerful United States bombers, and proposed to power a fleet of 25 long-range airliners—for use on Empire routes was almost coincident with the formal inauguration of the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

The engine, of 1,100 horsepower, manufactured by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation of Paterson, N.J., were contracted for and have been delivered in England since the start of the war. Their purchase marks the first time that Britain ever has come to the United States for commercial engines in quantity.

What the refurbishing of the British commercial fleet signifies is that Britain is in terms of competition for American Trans-oceanic airlines and British Airways, and that America remains for determination.

On June 1 the new British Overseas Airways Corporation, which merges Imperial Airways and British Airways, plans to begin a trans-Atlantic mail service with 20-ton flying boats. After operation last summer, that service was interrupted by the war.

Discover Snowless Land

Area In Antarctic Found By Byrd Are Not Mapped

New American explorations of bare earth, now not shown on maps now extend, have been discovered. The expedition to Antarctica, Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, reports that the United States, brought the news of the discovery of the expedition he commands.

These new lands, he said, were sighted during his flight over Antarctic territory.

Another thing he has learned on his present trip of the South Pole region, Byrd said, is that some areas which Sir Hubert Wilkins, British explorer, had reported to be Antarctic, really are a part of the Antarctic mainland.

Byrd's expedition reported reaching and mapping the long-sought Pacific coast of Antarctica. The expedition reached its base in January and its surveys and observations may extend into several weeks.

Byrd's flagship, the Bear, suffered damage in a storm off Cape Horn, weather which Byrd said was the worst he had seen in his experience as a sailor.

Aboard the Bear were Argentine, Chilean and United States men of the United States Government on the expedition, who are returning to Valparaiso, Chile.

Low Blood Pressure

Affected Persons Unable To Live Longer, But Often Feel Miserable

A large, recent increase in abnormally low blood pressure in the United States was reported to the American College of Surgeons at Cleveland.

Affected persons are likely to live longer on account of the low pressure, it was said, but with all the joy taken out of their lives. Often they feel miserable.

Hypotension is the name of the low-pressure condition. Dr. A. P. Brown of Dayton, Ohio, making the report, said cases have increased in the last 15 years and at present one-quarter of the patients admitted to two Dayton hospitals have low pressure.

There are several reasons, he explained. One is repeated flu epidemics. Another is that the automobile because it reduces walking and exercise. A third is the increasing use of the elevator. He said about 75 per cent of those with hypotension are underweight.

Normal blood pressures are rated as anything between 100 or 110 or 120 or 130. The low pressures run from 110 down, but usually are under 100. They may get as low as 80. This is a systolic pressure in millimeters of mercury.

Domestic Monopoles

When John David Eaton donated his twin-engine motorboat to the Royal Canadian Air Force, it was the first Besscraft to enter the service. The plane is powered with a 100-horsepower engine, has a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour and has seating capacity for eight persons; two pilots and six passengers.

No Substitute Yet

Wood Is Only Thing Found Suitable For Railroad Ties

In this era of war, when a man's necktie may have been a spare part, his pipe stem, formaldehyde-treated with phenol, and his shirt buttons once a pair of milk, had the good old reliable railroad cross-tie! For a solid concrete ironing iron for a substitute. They made ties of everything from compressed paper to glass, but in the early 1920s the "Twentieth Century steel" came on the wood.

Probably there is no patent saga sadder than that of the ironing substitute, except the perpetual-motion file, at the Patent Office. There are 2,500 patented cross-ties there that never carried a nail on a rail road, Chicago News.

Efficient Crop Production

Providing Favorable Conditions For Maximum Yields

Broadly speaking, there are two ways of increasing the efficiency of crop production. One involves the development and distribution of improved varieties by plant breeders, and the other is concerned with providing favorable conditions under which maximum yields of best quality products may be secured. Why is it that the first way is so popular, and the second so easily neglected? Nothing is easier than to "sell" a new variety of wheat to growers, but the adoption of methods of production necessary for the best immediate results and for the permanent benefit of the land is a much slower process—Seedtime and Harvest.

Education For The Blind

New Photographic Course Is Now Made Available

The initial part of the photographic course made available to a group of blind students at the New York Institute for the Blind, as described by Paul Mitchell, assistant principal of the institution, "consists of studying light by using it to heat and sound waves. A photo-electric cell is connected to a sound mechanism, and each student passes his hand through the light beam playing on the cell. This operates the sound mechanism and the result of his action is heard by the student."

Plain Horse Sense

Story From Australia About Difficulty That Was Solved

To those who don't know Dick appeared to be just another old horse with a shaggy coat who shared a paddock with a cow in Australia. The cow's name is Daisy, which is not unusual, but Daisy is an unusual cow. At Henselush she got her tail tangled in a heap of rusted hoop iron which was piled high behind a fence. The jibbed and pulled the began to crush around in half circles. Finally she got frantic and kept knocking herself against the fence.

Men rushed to Daisy's assistance but none could get near her, so frantic she had become. After a while Dick appeared on the outskirts of the scene, looking no different from the way he had always looked. He stepped by the fence and the rusted hoop iron with a shaggy coat. Step by step he drew closer to Daisy and her difficulties and as he approached he whinnied gently. He edged her into a corner and then placed his head on the wire and held it to the ground while gradually she dragged her tail free.

Said an onlooker, "It's just plain horse sense."

Aerial Color Cameras

May Make Art Of Camouflage In War A Doubtful Defense

The wide-angle, color aerial color cameras may prove to be one of the most effective weapons of war yet invented.

Color photography makes the art of camouflage a doubtful defense. Officials of the army air corps said at Washington, because it makes visible a range of colors which cannot be distinguished by the human eye in ordinary black-and-white photography.

Gun emplacements, tanks, supply lines and trenches which were carefully camouflaged by nets, branches and colored cloth map into sharp detail on a color photograph. Color pictures made by the army air corps brought out camouflaged buildings and other details of the landscape which were invisible on black-and-white pictures.

Gardening

The average amateur starts operations days or sometimes weeks too late and slips into the habit of yearly gardening can continue. With good reason there is no advantage in getting things in while there is still a glaze of frost on the ground. One setback from a cold day or two completely offends the early start and may, indeed, mean replanting the whole garden. This caution of course does not apply to very hardy vegetables or flowers to grass seed. There should be some in as soon as ground is fit to work.

Give Them Help

Spacing is important as even the enthusiastic do not care to spend money on the seed, plants, fertilizer, peat and similar plants with the best of intentions. The best advice advocated on the packet. With tiny seedlings, it is practically impossible to space by hand but if the seed is first mixed with a little sand and the whole sown carefully, plants will be spaced.

Good Guides

Seed catalogues sent out by the large firms contain much more than a mere mention of the many flowers and vegetables available and become invaluable guides in Canada. They specify important points such as soil, climate, resistance or lack of resistance to insects, diseases, and so on. Some of the seed catalogues are of the type of blooming, whether scented, and also the nature of the flowers for their purposes. All of these points may be taken into consideration in the selection of a new garden.

For The Overworked There are flower gardens that fit almost any situation. For those who have neither the time nor the space to devote to a garden, a few flowers that thrive on neglect. A large garden is a good idea, but a small garden is all that is required. Take a few signs and a few plants, a globe, portulaca and California poppies for edging. These sticky little flowers bloom all summer long and once started they will look after themselves.

MUSICAL AMBIGUATOR

Spenser Says That Anglo-Saxon Race Will Dominate

Frederick T. Birchall, Ottawa correspondent of the New York Times, advocated in an address to the Canadian Club of Toronto that the post-war world be "initially an Anglo-Saxon dominated world" and then a free or democratic world.

"I thoroughly agree that the industrial business in hand is to defeat dictatorship, to eliminate from the world the demands of brute force," he said. "We have tried to beat Hitler and destroy his war machine."

Mr. Birchall, for 24 years a member of the New York Times' European staff, said he could realize "how strong is the war machine we have set out to beat."

"Nevertheless," I stand here confident that it will be done," he declared. "I believe in democracy. I do not believe that freedom and the rule of law and reason with mankind has struggled through through thousands of years can be upset by one, two or possibly three mass of ill-trained gangsters skilled in mass psychology."

The task is to "put in order the chaos of the world after the war" and up to now "we have been a little careless about it," he said.

"I am asking you to-day to consider, as we and provident builders and cultivators should do, what sort of a house and garden we should create, what the new world we are coming into shall be, and how we shall proceed about constructing it."

Canada's Soldiers Overseas Not Neglecting Their Devotional Exercises

Canada's overseas soldiers have shown away these "Sunday blues" by going to church. Every Sunday finds the churches of all denominations in the Canadian Active Service Forces training area crowded to overflowing. FOREIGN EXCHANGE ACQUISITION ORDER
IMPORTANT NOTICE

As announced by the Minister of Finance, the Foreign Exchange Acquisition Order, 1940, has been enacted by Order-in-Council under the authority of the War Measures Act.

Unless exempted by the Order, every resident of Canada who, on May 1st, 1940, has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control, whether in Canada or outside Canada, is required forthwith to sell such foreign currency to an Authorized Dealer (i.e. a branch of a chartered bank) for payment in Canadian dollars at the official buying rate of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

"Foreign currency", for the purposes of the Order, means any currency (excluding coin) other than Canadian currency and includes bank notes, postal notes, money orders, cheques, travelers' cheques, prepaid letters of credit, bank drafts and other similar instruments payable in any currency other than Canadian currency, and also includes any amount in foreign currency of which a resident has a right to obtain payment by reason of a deposit, credit or balance of any kind at or with a bank, savings bank, trust company, loan company, stockbroker, investment dealer or other similar depository.

The Order does not require the sale of any foreign securities.

The Order does not affect any foreign currency, deposit or securities of any non-resident of Canada and for greater certainty the Order expressly declares that a non-resident visiting Canada for business or pleasure for a period or periods not exceeding six months in the year continues to be a non-resident for the purposes of the Order unless such person enters or has entered Canada with the intention of becoming a permanent resident.

No resident is required to sell any foreign currency if he satisfies the Foreign Exchange Control Board that he held such foreign currency on May 1st, 1940, solely as trustee or agent for a non-resident and that the non-resident's interest therein had not been acquired from a resident since September 16th, 1939, except in a manner approved by the Board.

Under certain conditions stipulated in Section 1 (b) of the Order, a resident who is not a Canadian citizen may be granted exemption, but only after application for exemption is approved by the Board.

No life insurance company incorporated in Canada is required by the Order to sell any foreign currency which it needs for the purpose of carrying on its business outside Canada.

Further particulars may be obtained from branches of chartered banks. Any resident who has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control on May 1st, 1940, regardless of amount, should consult his bank at once in order to ascertain the extent to which he is affected by the Order.

Marvelube has long been a leader among motor oils. The New Marvelube retains all the original high qualities—now it also goes through new refining processes which make it even tougher, cleaner and more heat-resistant than before.

So the New Marvelube lasts longer. Your oil bills are lower.

It keeps any engine cleaner, livelier. You get more power from the fuel you use. Upkeep costs are reduced to a minimum.
